IRSEF is a private non-profit association, with unlimited duration (Art. 1 of the statute) that has been operating since 1982.

The name: Institute for Research and Study on Education and Family already defines the purpose, goal and program of this body.

The IRSEF has life and meaning by succeeding in carrying out "research and study" on two fundamental themes of human and social life: education and family.

These themes are "perennial", in every historical context, hence the usefulness of a permanent body that, continuously, is supportive with technical and cultural skills, derived from study and research.

The IRSEF intends to achieve this through:

- the dissemination among the subscribers of strong ideas, guiding ideas, thoughtful and argued, on the issues that compete with them;
- the real and productive collaboration with those who are delving into the issues that compete, see university professors and researchers, with the aim of bringing university research, to levels understandable to all parents, which daily must make in the face of educational and cohabitation problems, all young people who need to train, improve their skills to develop their own profitable and constructive life project and build their own professional and cultural curriculum useful at work level.

It is therefore committed to:

- propose guidelines written in simple and current language, easily understood, clear and that makes the topic "fascinating";
- propose reflections, sent with timing, in accordance with events and times;
- provide documents and paths that help develop individual life planning.

The governing body of the Institute is the Board of Directors elected by the shareholders' meeting, which lasts for three years.
